Humor 101

Mitch Earleywine, PhD

A concise, reader-friendly introduction to an important topic in modern psychology, Humor 101 emphasizes the role of humor in psychology and discusses why it is an important topic for psychologists to study and understand.

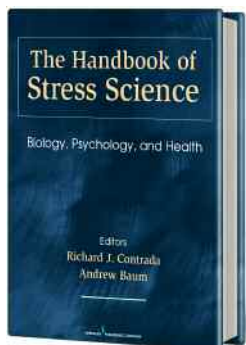

Author Mitch Earleywine draws from the most current research on humor as well as his own experiences in standup comedy to focus on how humor can regulate emotion, reduce anxiety, defuse tense situations, and enhance personal relationships.

Key topics:

- Social and situational aspects of humor, such as attracting mates, developing friendships, increasing group cohesion, and establishing status
- The darker aspects of humor and how it can be used to hurt or harm people through teasing, taunting, bullying, and prejudice
- An explanation of “how humor works” plus tips for readers on how to become funnier
- New directions in humor research, such as studying humor as a form of intelligence or creativity, and promising computer science/artificial intelligence work

HEALTH PSYCHOLOGY/BEHAVIORAL MEDICINE

The Handbook of Stress Science Biology, Psychology, and Health

Richard J. Contrada, PhD,
Andrew Baum, PhD, Editors

“This is an important book about the scientific study of stress and human adaptation.

“It brings together both empirical data and theoretical developments that address the fundamental question of how psychosocial variables get inside the body to influence neurobiological processes that culminate in physical disease.”

—David C. Glass, PhD, Emeritus Professor of Psychology
Stony Brook University (From the Foreword)

Edited by two leading health psychologists, this book presents a detailed overview of key topics in stress and health psychology. This valuable text discusses how stress influences physical health—including its effects on the nervous, endocrine, cardiovascular, and immune systems.

The book reviews conceptual developments, empirical findings, clinical applications, and investigative strategies and tools from the past few decades of stress research. This state of the art resource represents all major approaches to defining stress and describes the themes and developments that characterize the field of health-related stress research.

Managing Suicide Risk in Primary Care

Craig J. Bryan, PsyD,
M. David Rudd, PhD

This practical guide demonstrates how the primary care clinic can be a key setting for preventing suicide, and addresses key issues that often arise for behavioral health consultants (BHCs) who work with suicidal patients in primary care settings.

The authors offer strategies for managing suicidal patients, including the development of clinic policies and procedures prior to the crisis, steps to take during the crisis, and plans for post-crisis care.

Key Topics:

- Appropriate interventions for the primary care setting
- Use of antidepressants
- Referring patients to specialty mental health
- Legal expectations in primary care

NEUROPSYCHOLOGY AND REHABILITATION

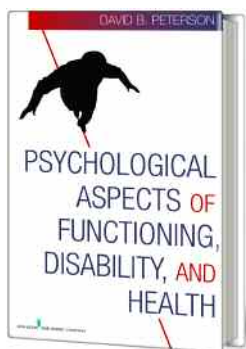

Applied Clinical Neuropsychology An Introduction

Jan Leslie Holtz, PhD

This breakthrough introductory text introduces advanced undergraduate students and clinicians in training how clinical neuropsychologists actually practice their craft. The book uncovers professional issues that clinical neuropsychologists deal with daily, including neurogenerative disorders, acquired disorders, ethical practice issues, interviewing, testing, prognosis and treatment planning, drug prescriptions, and more.

Using case studies culled from the author's own clinical work, the book provides firsthand accounts of neuropsychology in action. As the first textbook to integrate real, practical applications of neuropsychology, it covers the assessment, diagnosis, and treatment of individuals with brain illness or injury, as opposed to examining brain structures and functions alone.

September 2010 · 600 pp · Softcover · 978-0-8261-0474-8 · $95.00

Psychological Aspects of Functioning, Disability, and Health

David Peterson, PhD, CRC, NCC

"Peterson is the most qualified individual in the field of rehabilitation counseling and rehabilitation psychology to write this text."

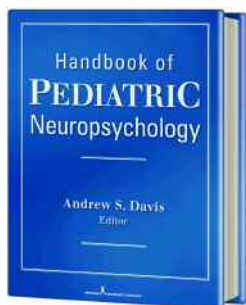

—David A. Rosenthal, PhD, CRC Chairperson, Department of Rehabilitation Psychology and Special Education University of Wisconsin-Madison

Focusing on psychopathology as classified in the DSM-IV-TR, this text discusses how it can be integrated into the ICF to assist mental health professionals while diagnosing and treating people with mental disorders.

Key Features:

- Develops knowledge and understanding of mental health functioning and disability based on the ICF and related diagnoses within the DSM-IV-TR
- Applies the ICF conceptual framework to planning mental health assessment and related interventions, and evaluating treatment outcomes
- Integrates diagnostic information from the DSM-IV-TR with the ICF's classification of functioning, disability, and health

Handbook of Pediatric Neuropsychology

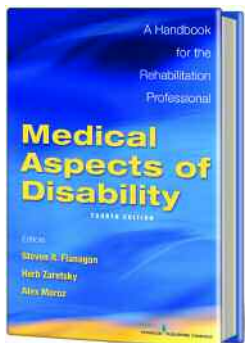

Andrew S. Davis, PhD, Editor

A comprehensive guide to basic neurodevelopmental research, this handbook discusses practical issues in pediatric assessment and presents an overview of the most common medical conditions that neuropsychologists encounter while dealing with pediatric populations.

This text also describes a variety of professional issues that neuropsychologists must confront during their daily practice, such as ethics, multiculturalism, child abuse, forensics, and psychopharmacology. This resource also explores school-based issues such as special education law, consulting with school staff, and reintegrating children back into mainstream schools.

Medical Aspects of Disability

A Handbook for the Rehabilitation Professional, Fourth Edition

Steven Flanagan, MD,
Herbert H. Zaretsky, PhD,
Alex Moroz, MD, Editors

“...one of the best sources of rehabilitation practice preparation for students...the most enlightened guide for rehabilitation professionals.”

—Nan Zhang Hampton, PhD, CRC

Department of Counseling and School Psychology University of Massachusetts

Now in its fourth edition, this landmark volume has been substantially revised, updated, and expanded—comprehensively describing aspects of disability pertaining to medical conditions commonly encountered in rehabilitation settings. This edition discusses important topics that have come to the forefront of medical rehabilitation and disability, covering disabling conditions and disorders not only from clinical but also functional and psychological perspectives.

The Encyclopedia of Neuropsychological Disorders

Chad A. Noggle, PhD,
Raymond S. Dean, PhD, ABPP, ABPN,
Arthur MacNeill Horton, Jr., EdD, ABPP, ABPN, Editors

An ideal source for helping clinical professionals increase diagnostic accuracy and intervention success, this A–Z reference covers the neuropsychological aspects of 300 pediatric, adult, and geriatric neurological disorders. The text goes beyond the emotional and behavioral aspects of each disorder and views the broader impacts of the symptoms.

Each entry covers:

- Essential features of the disorder
- Physiological basis of the disorder
- Clinical presentation of the disorder
- Neuropsychological assessment and differential diagnosis of the disorder
- Evidence-based treatments and interventions of the disorder

NEUROPSYCHOLOGY AND REHABILITATION

The Handbook of Sport Neuropsychology

Frank M. Webbe, PhD, Editor

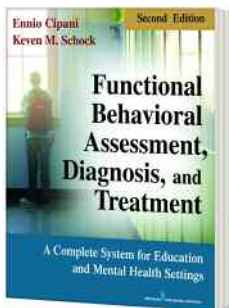

This new handbook presents basic definitions, ethical considerations, risk factors and mechanisms, and counseling and rehabilitation principles of sport neuropsychology. Featuring contributions from many of the leading researchers in clinical neuropsychology, this text integrates research findings from a wide variety of professional and amateur sports (football, hockey, boxing, wrestling, etc.), and discusses concomitant effects of mild and traumatic head injury.

Key Topics:

- Qualifications and training of the sport neuropsychologist
- Evidence-based neuropsychological assessment
- Effects of repeated concussive impacts in sport
- Concussion management programs in college and professional sports
- Neuropsychological issues in youth sports

EDUCATIONAL PSYCHOLOGY AND ASSESSMENT

Functional Behavioral Assessment, Diagnosis, and Treatment

A Complete System for Education and Mental Health Settings, Second Edition

Ennio Cipani, PhD, Keven M. Schock, MA, BCBA

“There are three or four other texts on functional analysis. I’ve examined every one and Cipani’s is clearly the best. The assessment part is great, and I particularly like the “protocol” format for interventions. Cipani’s text nicely fills a big gap between research and application. Were I teaching a seminar to clinicians, I think the text would be perfect.”

—Brian A. Iwata, PhD, University of Florida

Now in its second edition, this popular text provides a comprehensive approach to functional behavioral assessment, a function-based diagnostic classification system of the target problem, and functional behavioral treatment. This new edition also provides a wealth of new case studies, in addition to a greater analysis of the role of establishing operations and abolishing operations.

Key Features:

- Provides a methodology for functional behavioral assessment
- Includes recommendations for conducting descriptive and trigger analyses
- Includes integrated online ancillary materials for both students and instructors

DEVELOPMENTAL PSYCHOLOGY

Handbook of Life-Span Development

Karen Fingerman, PhD, Cynthia Berg, PhD, Jacqui Smith, PhD,
Toni C. Antonucci, PhD, Editors

This handbook comprehensively investigates the physical, cognitive, and socio-emotional development of the aging population. Covering innovative new theories of aging, this handbook discusses behavioral genetics, socio-emotional selectivity theory, various ecological models, and more.

Handbook of Life-Span Development also examines the dynamics of close relationships among the elderly population, temperament and personality traits, and psychopathology. Additionally, given the number of demographical shifts of recent years, it explores issues related to fertility and life expectancy, environmental contexts, technology, immigration, and public policy.

CLINICAL PSYCHOLOGY, PSYCHOTHERAPY, AND COUNSELING

Integrating the Expressive Arts into Counseling Practice

Theory-Based Interventions

Suzanne Degges-White, PhD, LMHC, LPC, NCC,
Nancy L. Davis, PhD, LPC, LSC, Editors

An essential source for counselors and counseling students, this text explores how expressive arts techniques—including art, music, dance, and drama therapy—may be integrated into counseling. It includes more than 50 expressive arts interventions, described in a step-by-step fashion, for use with a variety of clients.

Key Topics:

- Introduction and history of multiple theories, including Cognitive-Behavioral Therapy, Solution-Focused Brief Therapy, Gestalt Theory, and more
- Use of expressive arts within each theory
- Sample expressive arts interventions
- Advice and experiences from leading practitioners
- Ideas for improving supervision sessions

Ethics, Aging, and Society

The Critical Turn

Martha B. Holstein, PhD,
Mark Waymack, PhD,
Jennifer Parks, PhD

This text examines the most critical, cutting-edge issues in aging today, including long-term care, abuse and neglect, Alzheimer's disease, and natural disasters. It explores the issues that arise when ethics is applied to the practical concerns that occur in the day-to-day work of health and social service providers.

Key Features:

- Explores new directions in ethical and social philosophy in gerontology
- Highlights case studies derived from day-to-day practice
- Includes discussions on individual/clinical ethics in health and long-term care, as well as ethical issues raised by public policy, cultural norms, and social attitudes

Annual Review of Gerontology and Geriatrics, Volume 30, 2010

Focus on Biobehavioral Perspectives on Health in Late Life

Keith E. Whitfield, PhD, Volume Editor

This issue of the Annual Review of Gerontology and Geriatrics discusses how complex biological, behavioral, and social systems interact to create and impact health. This knowledge is essential to maintaining positive health outcomes over the life span and across a variety of populations and settings.

With contributions by leading world scientists, this trusted annual volume reviews the current literature and presents examples of how biological factors underlie behavioral factors to impact health in later life. It also offers methods for examining these complex systems of biology and behavior, and explores how social scientists use this information in their research.

Violence and Victims

Roland D. Maiuro, PhD, Editor-in-Chief

The Evidence That Informs Research, Policy, and Practice

- How Do We Assess How Violent an Offender Will Be?
- What Is the Likelihood of a Future Incident?
- How Do We Counsel Victims of Violence?
- What Are the Incidence Rates of Violence and Recidivism?
- How Can We Improve Our Clinical Practice with Victims and Offenders?

We all face the difficult problem of understanding and treating the perpetrators and victims of violence behavior. Violence and Victims is the evidence-based resource that informs clinical decisions, legal actions, and public policy.

Violence and Victims is a peer-reviewed journal of theory, research, policy, and clinical practice in the area of interpersonal violence and victimization. It seeks to facilitate the exchange of information on this subject across such professional disciplines as psychology, sociology, criminology, law, medicine, nursing, psychiatry, and social work.

Beliefs and Values

Understanding the Global Implications of Human Nature

Craig N. Shealy, PhD, Editor-in-Chief

“In a timely departure, this unique journal enlightens, informs and empowers thoughtful exploration of the inextricable influence of beliefs and values in policy debate and human achievement.”

—Charito Krivant

Founding President and CEO Creative Associates International, USA

Beliefs and Values brings together scholars, educators, practitioners, students, policy makers, and other leaders to consider what beliefs and values are, where they come from, and how they are linked to actions, policies, and practices around the world. An international and interdisciplinary journal, Beliefs and Values bridges scholarship and application, showcases exemplary people, projects, and programs, and facilitates a greater understanding of self, others, and the world at large. Through engaging articles and innovative features, Beliefs and Values helps us understand better the global implications of human nature and more effectively address the most pressing issues of our day.

Articles and features address six important areas of concern in public policy, advocacy, education, and scholarship:

- Conflict Resolution
- Sustainability
- Global Education
- Human Rights
- Equal Treatment and Access
- Religious and Cultural Understanding

Partner Abuse

New Directions in Research, Intervention, and Policy

John Hamel, LCSW

Partner Abuse, a peer-reviewed journal, recognizes that physical and emotional abuse among dating, cohabitating and married partners is as a major public health and social problem in North America and around the world. Its purpose is to advance knowledge, practice and policies through a commitment to rigorous, objective research and evidence-based solutions. In addition to original research papers and literature reviews, the journal welcomes viewpoints and commentaries on the topic of partner abuse, as well as clinical case studies, book reviews and letters to the editor.

Partner Abuse seeks to advance research, treatment and policy on partner abuse in new directions. A basic premise of the journal is that partner abuse is a human problem, and that the particular role of gender in the etiology, perpetration, and consequences of emotional and physical partner abuse cannot be assumed, but rather must be subjected to the same empirical scrutiny as any other factor.
