GERONTOLOGICAL SOCIAL WORK

Depressed Older Adults

Education and Screening

Jacquelin Berman, PhD, MSW,
Lisa M. Furst, LMSW

An invaluable source for professionals working in aging and social service programs, this text presents guidelines for establishing mental health education and screening programs focused on late-life depression. The authors present the two-time award-winning model: Educating About and Screening Elders for Depression (EASE-D). This model offers a practical, insightful, and culturally-sensitive approach to mental health education, which can be adapted by service programs seeking to identify clinical depression among their older adult clientele.

With this book, practitioners can help older adults:

- Learn if they are at risk for depression and seek help if they are
- Identify both long-standing and newly emergent symptoms of clinical depression
- Increase their awareness of the role of mental health in their over all quality of life
- Connect to community resources for evaluation and treatment for depression

Ethics, Aging, and Society

The Critical Turn

Martha B. Holstein, PhD,
Mark Waymack, PhD,
Jennifer Parks, PhD

This text examines the most critical, cutting-edge issues in aging today, including long-term care, abuse and neglect, Alzheimer's disease, and natural disasters. It explores the issues that arise when ethics is applied to the practical concerns that occur in the day-to-day work of health and social service providers.

Key Features:

- Explores new directions in ethical and social philosophy in connection with gerontology
- Enriched with case studies that are derived from day-to-day practice
- Ranges from individual/clinical ethics in health and long-term care to ethical issues raised by public policy, cultural norms, and social attitudes
- The first major work in a more than a decade that brings together complex elements at the heart of ethical thinking

FAMILY AND INTERPERSONAL VIOLENCE

Restorative Justice Dialogue

An Essential Guide for Research and Practice

Mark Umbreit, PhD,
Marilyn Peterson Armour, PhD

“I know of no other book that provides such a complete review of the various and emerging restorative practices and the phenomenal growth of this movement worldwide.”

—David Karp, PhD, Skidmore College

“The combination of two outstanding and widely recognized restorative justice researchers, practitioners, and authors has produced a text that is destined to be a major resource.”

—Katherine Van Wormer, PhD, University of Northern Iowa

This book provides a comprehensive foundation for understanding restorative justice and its application worldwide to numerous social issues. Backed by reviews of empirical research and case examples, the authors describe the core restorative justice practices, including victim-offender mediation, family group conferencing, and peacemaking circles, as well as cultural considerations, emerging variations in a wide variety of settings, and the crucial role of the facilitator. Together, authors Umbreit and Armour bring the latest empirical research and clinical wisdom to those invested in the research and practice of restorative justice.
