The Journal of EMDR Practice and Research is a quarterly, peer-reviewed publication devoted to integrative, state-of-the-art articles on the practice of Eye Movement Desensitization and Reprocessing (EMDR). It is a broadly conceived interdisciplinary journal that stimulates and communicates research and theory about EMDR, with an emphasis on the application to clinical practice. The current treatment guidelines of the American Psychiatric Association and the International Society for Traumatic Stress Studies designate EMDR as an effective treatment for post-traumatic stress. EMDR was also found effective by the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs and Department of Defense, the United Kingdom Department of Health, the Israeli National Council for Mental Health, and many other international health and governmental agencies.

The Journal of EMDR Practice and Research is a benefit of membership in the EMDR International Association (EMDRIA), a professional association where practitioners and researchers seek the highest standards for the clinical use of EMDR. By promoting training, research, and the sharing of the latest clinical information, EMDRIA is committed to assuring that therapists are knowledgeable and skilled in the methodology of EMDR. For membership information and an application, visit www.emdria.org.

The Journal of EMDR Practice and Research is available online.
